Henry Suit for Damages-Another Old Cirizen Bend-Various News Items. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch. PETERSBURG, July 15, 1885.

Mr. R. B. Brydie, one of the inspectors at Oaks warehouse, had been complaining for the past few days of a pain in his left breast. Feeling better this morning, he went down to the warehouse to attend to certain business. While chatting pleasantly with some of his friends who were seated near him he suddenly fell from his chair upon his face. When his friends went to him he was dead. Death resulted from heart-disease.

Mr. Brydie was a native and resident of Lunenburg county. Several years age he was appointed inspector of tobacco at Oaks warehouse, his associate being General Stith Bolling. Mr. Brydie was a very popular man in the South Side, and was in most comfortable circumstances. He was the owner of considerable property in Lunenburg county, of which county he was sheriff for many years. Mr. Brydie leaves a large and interesting family. His re-mains will be taken to Lunenburg county for interment.

HEAVY SUIT FOR DAMAGES. Alexander Hamilton, Esq., of this city, and Judge W. H. On the 9th of December, 1884, Wil liam Johnson (a colored employe of the Norfolk and Western railroad) attempted to couple an engine-tender and While thus engaged an accident resulted, and Johnson was frightfully injured, his right arm and collar-bone being broken and his body painfully crushed. It is alleged that on ac count of an incompetent surgeon furnished by the company Johnson's recovery was not only retarded, but that his life was additionally jeopard ized. Upon his recovery Johnson so

The contention of counsel for the plainting is that the railroad company had not provided the coupling appliances which are required for safety in coupling cars. Expert testimony will be adduced to show that the coupling appliances which Johnson had to use were defect which Johnson had the will be the proprietor of Millioro' Springs, Va.

The Normal-Opening Exercises, &c. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

JULY 15, 1885. The Normal Institute opened yester-day under most favorable auspices. Four hundred teachers have registered, and as quickly were assigned to their homes during the session. All the arrangements work admirably, and reflect much credit upon the gentlemen who are managing them.

The Baptist church has been obtained as the place of meeting and 84 o'clock is the morning hour for opening. Professor Winston, who is the director of the Institute, was promptly in his place, and opened the session in a wellconceived and rapidly-delivered lecture, indicating much which will be taken up during the progress of the Institute. Professors Painter and Fox and State-Superintendent Farr also made addresses.

The welcome and responses thereto came off at the Opera-House last night. Our city superintendent of schools. Mr. Bowles, was master of ceremonies. Speeches were made by Henry St. George Tucker, Professor Winston, Major Jed. Hotchkiss, and Professor Painter.
